

Midland/Midsong International Label Discography

Midland International was based in the United States, founded in 1974 by Eddie O'Loughlin and Bob Reno. The label was distributed by RCA Victor from 1974 until 1978. In 1977, the company was sued by an electronics company called Midland Radio about the use of the name. O'Loughlin and Reno were forced to change the label name to Midsong International which was the name of their music publishing company. In 1978 the distribution was changed to MCA briefly. Because the company was very dependent on disco music, the company could not survive the end of disco music craze and closed down in 1980
